TIMELY TOPICS.

A NUMBER of German merchants doing business in New York have united to raise fifty thousand dollars to defray the expenses of the reception of the German crown prince in that city, and his subsequent escort to Philadelphia, on his visit to the centennial exhibition.

VICE-PRESIDENT WILSON was taken suddenly ill in Washington last week and his life was despaired of. He rallied however, and in an hour or two was considered out of danger. The latest accounts represent his condition as quite low, but still with no alarming symptoms.

LITTLE children are sold and exported from Italy now under a new dodge. Instead of taking them away singly, the speculators buy up a whole family at once, including father, mother, uncles and aunts, and start the lot for foreign parts. The law can't gainsay the will of father and mother, and so the little ones are smuggled out to tussle with the world.

HON. JEFFERSON DAVIS has accepted the presidency of the American department of the Mississippi Valley society, of London, tendered him by the parent organization. The object of this movement is to direct attention to the development of the commercial, agricultural and mineral resources of the valley of the Mississippi. Mr. Davis will devote his entire energies to the work in this country and Europe, making his headquarters at New Orleans.

A CURIOUS fact of nature can be seen near Eureka, Cal. It is in the shape of a tree seventy-five feet high, one portion of which is pine and the other fir. The body, from the ground to a distance of thirty feet, is pine, and then for a distance of twenty-five feet it is fir. The remaining twenty-five feet, like the lower portion, is pine. The fir portion of the tree is in a flourishing condition, the foliage on that part being so dense that the leaves are rather scarce. It is a rare curiosity, and attracts the attention of everybody who passes it.

The Paris Universe states that the Pope's household consists of 637 persons, the chief of whom are Cardinal Antonelli, the major-domo, the master of chamber, the grand almoner, the secretary, the steward, the governor, Gen. Kanzler, and 5 chamberlains. There are 20 persons employed in the secretary's office, 15 in the administration of the palace and 3 in the secret printing house.

Indian agent Howard, of the Spotted Tail agency, complains about the "squaws" there, and wants them abolished. These "squaw-men" are white adventures who have married Indian wives and are much esteemed by the Indians. Spotted Tail in his Crow Butte speech said he liked them very much. An attempt to drive them out would probably be resisted by the Indians.

Several days ago the family of Charles Massey, Sr., who lives at Fordville, Ky., were taken suddenly ill. Physicians pronounced the sickness the effect of poison, and despite their efforts, the son, daughter and wife died.

The physicians discovered the well used by the family to be filled with poison, either strichyrene or arsenic. No person is suspected, but all think the poison was put in the well by human hands. Others of Mr. Massey's family, as well as he, are in a fair way to recover.

The United States supreme court has ordered the Arkansas Hot Springs case to be advanced on docket, and by agreement of counsel the arguments will be heard on the 4th of January next. These cases were decided in favor of the government by the court of claims last spring, and the claimants of the title to the lands involved appealed. A large array of counsel is engaged to appear for the claimants, prominent among whom are Matt H. Carpenter and Albert Pike.

The present Pacific railroad, and especially the California end of it, which is commencing a southern line of its own from that side, is opposing, though not with great openness, the Texas Pacific railroad project. According to the Springfield Republican, Gould, head of the manager on this side of the Central Pacific, is sending secret emissaries over the southern mind on this question, and trying to prevent the southern congressmen being a unit in favor of the Scott County bill, when they get to Washington this winter.

The New York Herald publishes a telegraphic synopsis of the letters received in London from Stanley. He says that Livingstone was wrong in reporting that the Victoria Nyanza consisted of five lakes. Speke correctly states that Victoria Nyanza is one lake, but Speke's two islands are peninsulas. The river Thamey is the principal feeder of the lake, and the extreme source of the Nile yet discovered. Stanley had several conflicts with slave dealers on the lake. On one occasion he was attacked by one hundred natives, armed with spears, in thirteen canoes, who were repulsed after a severe fight. Three natives were killed. He arrived at the Utesia hunting camp at Mysura, April 18, when the king directed extraordinary displays and festivities. One feature was a naval review on the lake of eighty-four canoes, manned by 2,500 men. On the second day in addition to the naval maneuvers, there were races, which eighty-four canoes were engaged, each propelled by thirty oarsmen; the king leading the fleet personally in the presence of a great crowd of lookers-on, including three hundred wives of the king. On the third day there was birdshooting and target practice, by three thousand troops, and on the fourth day they returned to Mysura's capital. This king has two million subjects; is a Musselman; has great intelligence, and his dominion affords the best asylum for the possible civilization of Africa.

An old ship with a history is to be raised from the Sacramento river, where she has lain for some fifty years. This is the bark Globe, 295 tons, that sailed on a whaling cruise from Nantucket to the Pacific in December, 1822. Her crew mutinied and murdered Capt. Worth and his officers in 1824, then fled to the Malagasy Islands, and the vessel was recaptured and the mutineers taken back to Nantucket and hanged.

Business failures are still the order in New York.

The democratic majority in New York state will not vary much from $18,000.

Spanish agents are reported to be carrying on lively recruiting business in New York city, for the Cuban service.

The tobacco crop in Connecticut is growing finely. The crop will be very large and the finest in quality since 1864.

One-fifth of the population of New York is said to consist of Germans.

Springfield, Vt., has a co-operative factory.

The insurgents in Turkey have got far enough along to call an assembly to proclaim a national government, in the meantime Turkey's Christian protectors in Europe are scowling over the Porte's sly repudiation of $30,000,000 of interest on the national bonds.

The Peruvian government offers to dispose of 50,000 tons guano, at $10 a deposit, at a fixed price to buyers in the United States.

The monopoly of the contractors in this country having been suspended for the purpose.

The territory on the right bank of the Spica Daria, from the Russian frontier to the river Nareen, hitherto belonging to the Khokhans, is annexed to Russia.

Peru is so dependent upon the sale of her guano for prosperity, that business has been at a stand-still for some time, owing to the fact that the French and other contractors have not been confirmed. The government has been obliged to force a loan from the unwilling bankers.

Russia has the awful prospect of a famine before her, consequent upon the failure of the crops over a large district. With famine, nihilism, the Central Asian war and the Turkish question, Russia seems to have her hands full.

Spain has nine iron-clads and thirty gun-boats ready for active service, manned by experienced and hardy seamen and well officered. The Spanish government, while negligent in other particulars, has been very particular about keeping up its small but efficient navy.

The Porto Rico people, it has been announced, are rapidly working up a rebellion against Spain. Their opportunity is a good one. There are only few Spanish troops on the island, who could be wiped out speedily, and Spain being entirely occupied with the Carlists and Cubans can not possibly send any re-enforcements. A club has been organized in New York to further the conspiracy, and it is possible that Porto Rico will achieve her independence without the tribulations of her neighbor, Cuba.

The president has appointed John B. Raymond postmaster at Vickburg, Mississippi, in place of Henry R. Pease, suspended under the tenure of office act. Pease was elected United States senator from Mississippi, from February 1874, to last March, the unexpired term of Gov. Ames. He was then appointed postmaster at Vickburg, and now has been removed through the influence of his colored successor, United States senator Bruce, aided by a delegation from Mississippi.

SATURDAY, NOV. 20th, 1875.

VICTORY. 50,000 MAJORITY!

The latest election news brings the glad intelligence that the people have ratified the New Constitution by near fifty thousand majority.

We congratulate our readers upon the result and rejoice with them over the possession of a fundamental law framed by Alabamians.

We rejoice that the old instrument, framed by aliens and adventurers and forced upon our unwilling people by a partisan and tyrannical Congress, has been trampled under their feet, spit upon and spurned.

Our people can now begin to see daylight ahead. Retrenchment and reform have been inaugurated in earnest. The days of dishonest legislation are over. The "development of resources" bumble has been knocked in the head. The private fortunes of our people are no longer at the mercy of lawmakers. No more discrimination in taxation in favor of rich corporations. Ignoramus can no more gass all day in the legislature, at a cost of a thousand dollars to the people, upon subjects they never could understand. Many other evils have been checked; every man is secure in his rights, and we are all happy.

Chas. B. Meyer, chairman of the late Republican party of Alabama, is not much of a success as a chairman. Boss Spencer had better remove him.

If Sam Bard had only had 30 days more in which to work, he would have defeated the new Constitution. That is P'salmist thinks so. And Sam Reid thinks if that N. Carolina dog had'nt stopped, he would have caught the rabbit.

Perry county which usually gives three thousand Radical majority, went for the new Constitution by over 800 majority.

Some men in this county who refused to register and vote for the new Constitution, have perhaps learned by this time that the Democratic party can walk alone without their aid. No reference to those who had the will to vote, but were prevented from doing so by sufficient causes.

The colored men of Calhoun county have shown their good sense to a remarkable degree by refusing to vote against the new Constitution; and our people should remember it to their credit. Many of them voted for it and all but refused to vote against it.

Lewis McKenzie, Elbert Walker, Alfred Forney, James Rowland, Burwell Slatton, Alfred Grant, John Bush, Joe Weir and other influential men of their race voted for it, and some of them worked for it. Tom Clark was about the only one here who worked on election day to prevent his race from acting sensibly, but he did'nt have much influence. He don't like to see his colored brethren temperate in politics or practice. He resisted the formation of a temperance society among them as he resisted their voting for the Constitution; and he showed himself about as much a friend to them in one instance as in the other. They had better avoid all such bad advisors as Tom Clark.

Only ten votes were cast in the county against ratification, and they were cast by ten negroes living along the Talladega line, and who came under the influence of Talladega Radicals. We rejoice to know that while Talladega Radicals were interfering in the affairs of Calhoun voters, they neglected home voters and suffered the Democrats to carry Talladega for ratification. Henceforth they will have as much as they can do to rally their own broken and demoralized ranks.

By the terms of the new Constitution Calhoun and Cleburne now form one Senatorial district. While she welcomes the new political alliance with her sister, Calhoun will always remember her past pleasant political relations with Cherokee and Etowah.

The Result.

The election yesterday resulted in favor of the new Constitution by an overwhelming majority, the news now indicating that it is probable that Dallas and Montgomery will be the only two counties in the State voting against ratification. The result in Dallas is due to the genius of Hon. Jere Harlan, while the influence of Judge Rice with the negroes was sufficient to unite them in opposition to ratification, as to produce that result in Montgomery.

We have no time to do more than congratulate the people of Alabama on the glorious victory they have won. The new organic law of the State, which protects all the rights of all, will inaugurate a new and prosperous era in Alabama.

The day dawns upon a thoroughly re-decided State, and our chanteclers all salute it.—Montgomery Advertiser.

Our Cincinnati Letter.

DEAR REPUBLICAN:—The folly of the Ohio Democracy has borne its fruit. Although the late State elections will not be entirely adverse to the Democratic party—although they were not a Waterloo, still they beat the soublances of a most ruinous defeat. The prestige which last year's "tidal wave" gave to the Democracy, has been lost. There is but one redeeming feature in the late canvas, and that is the noble stand the Commonwealth of Mississippi has taken. Freed from the curse of negro rule, the development of the mighty resources ought now only to be a matter of time. Sympathies of the Northern people were with the tax-payers of Mississippi from the first to the last.

One word as to the issue at stake in your own State. Your newly framed Constitution meets the demand of every intelligent citizen. Its provisions are excellent. Alabama, with a State debt of $20,000,000, and taxable property, of $163,000,000 is upon the verge of bankruptcy; but Alabama, with a Constitution which closes all avenues for the cost of the Government machinery, a reduction of taxation, and provisions for an honorable compromise with its creditors,—for necessity knows no law—may again resume the rank in the midst of her sister States, which rightly belongs to her. Whites and Blacks, Democrats and Republicans ought to vote in favor of the new Constitution, for then the State can be saved from a disgraceful bankruptcy.

Appross, as the late elections were the last important trial of strength between the two political parties previous to the Presidential canvass, it will, perhaps, be of interest to your readers to have a list of the different States with their respective number of electoral votes cast according to their political faith, the result of the late elections being taken as the touchstone. New York is placed in the Democratic list, although the Legislature is Republican; and North Carolina in the Republican list, although both parties are very nearly balanced in the State. It will be seen from this that the Democratic party is still in the ascendancy.

TOTAL VOTE—188. TOTAL VOTE—181.

As seen from the above, the Democrats have a majority of seven in the Electoral College. But should the Republicans carry Ohio next October, three weeks in advance of the Presidential election, this majority will not merely be annihilated, but the moral effect of this victory would be ruinous to the Democracy in closely contested States, such as New York, New Hampshire, and perhaps Indiana. But there is no need of Ohio being again lost to the Democracy. If the next Democratic Congress will keep aloof from all corrupt jobs, and, above all, inaugurate a sound financial system, that its dissolution was supposed inevitable at any hour. Among the solid results of Allen's splendid campaign in Ohio, in 1873, was the election of Gov. Tilden in New York, 1874, by the tremendous majority of over 40,000. It was the most stupendous political change New York ever underwent, produced simply by the Democratic influence of Ohio, under a bold, patriotic leader. The old vim and vigor of the New York Democracy were brought to the work by the cheering evidence in the Buckeye State, that pure Democratic measures would always win. Well, after those political elections, the strength of the Democratic party, naturally, gradually increased, and the weakness of the Republican party was more and more apparent, and that Mongrel "backbone" was supposed to be damaged beyond the possibility of repair. It was broken, and that just disposed of the beast for all time. It might exist, but it was supposed to be a cripple, and powerless. October just passed, introduced a dozen or more States, on the eve of an election, and Ohio was to lead off, but what are the features of the political chessboard to-day? Again Gov. Allen was the standard-bearer in the Buckeye State, but the Democratic Presidential spectators in other sections of the country saw that another victory for the Democracy was in question, as to who should be the nominating committee of the National Convention, and the first the Democratic delegations of New York had a voice in the matter, it was determined to "kill the man off" if possible; so New York took advantage of that sullenly in the Ohio platform, "plenty of paper money," and, following "specie payments, the debt in gold coin, and no step backwards," worked like bulldogs to spoil the Ohio Democratic campaign, and to tear the grand old standard to pieces. Is not that this New York Democracy so lacking the national backbone, but that it can all too easily conceive a frantic love for the Presidential chair in the White House, and having, as they believed, a candidate they could manipulate, they determined he should fill it; they undertook the game of "rule or ruin," though the "ruin" would bury their political household. The New York Democracy worked secretly to give aid to the Republican party of Ohio, in order to "kill off" the Democratic candidate, and so far succeeded. The New York Democracy paid money to break down the Ohio Democratic campaign; and we have the name of one prominent member of the party here, who gave very liberally from his vast wealth, acquired in rail way stock speculations. He had a safe-cash to grind, and the old Ohio party stood in the way! The result of the Ohio campaign we all know. Ohio was lost, and the party through the base treachery of the New York delegation, of New York, headed by the Manhattan Club. The loss of Ohio was stolidly admitted by base traitors. FAIR NOTICE.

JACKSONVILLE, ALA.

Sept. 16, 1875.

After the 1st day of October next, I will not sell any goods on credit to any one. I must have cash or country produce for all goods I sell before they leave the house. I hope no one will ask for credit, for they will certainly be refused. I can and will sell goods lower than any one who sells on time. Asking a fair proportion of the trade, I am respectfully,

L. J. PARR.

NOTE C. E.

To my customers I would say I need what you are due me; and if you have not got the money to pay, I will take country produce at full prices for the amount you are due me. If you cannot settle in any other way, come forward and give your notes, as I positively will close my books on the 1st day of October next. Respectfully,

L. J. PARR.

FAMILY GROCERIES.

Dr. J. C. FRANCIS would inform his friends and the public generally that he is receiving and opening a full and large assortment of FAMILY GROCERIES and DRUGS, in the brick corner formerly occupied by J. M. Currell, which he is selling low for cash.

The regular meeting of Good Templars takes place next Tuesday night. It is hoped and earnestly desired that every member, male and female will attend, a business of great importance and urgent necessity is to be transacted.

Scarcely had our community recovered from the shock of one death when it was called upon to mourn the departure of another of its loved ones—JOHN H. WOODWARD—who died on the morning of the 14th inst. A nobler spirit, a truer heart, a more generous nature never lived, and his untimely death came like a personal bereavement to every house hold in Jacksonville.

MARRIED.

Snow—Cannon.—On Tuesday evening the 16th inst., at the residence of the bride's father, Hon. L. W. Cannon, by the Rev. J. W. Whitten, Mr. S. P. Snow and Miss ANNIE CANNON—both of Jacksonville.

The printers of the REPUBLICAN office acknowledged at the hands of the affectionate mother of the accomplished bride, a magnificent frosted cake from the wedding table, and want bon voyage after the happy bride and gifted husband as they start upon the journey of a new life together, never to be separated “until death do them part.” That the skies may shine brightly, the flowers bloom lovely, and the birds sing sweetly all along the way is the hope of their hosts of friends.

Obituary.

John H. Woodward. Son of E. L. and M. J. Woodward was born in Jacksonville, Alabama, April 27th 1852; was married October 15th 1873; died November 14th 1875.

A noble heart has ceased to beat forever. In the prime of manhood, in full maturity of physical perfection and mental development, ere those brilliant dreams, which his proud ambitious heart anticipated, had met with that fruition which his wonderful decision and systematic resolution rendered but a consequence of time, his soul grew tired of earth and winged its flight to the realms of glory. His sterling virtues of steadfast purpose and true ambition lighted with the splendor of ephemeral success, gave indication of a brilliant and glorious career, but while his aspirations were guided by the brightest rays of hope and the bow of promise gleamed most beautifully from the canopy of a cloudless sky, the shadow fell; the architect was dead before the edifice had reached its completion, and we thought,

“Behold how grand a spirit has been snuffed out, and we knew it not. Endowed by nature with a brilliant intellect, and those noble attributes of character that grace and adorn manhood, making it a model of perfection and a paragon of taste. Created with devotion and followed by affection, well may it be said, “none knew him but to love him, none named him but to praise.”

Honor was his guiding star, honor and integrity his chief principles, generosity and kindness his controlling emotions, and with an unswerving fidelity he clung to the dictates prompted by a warm and affectionate heart. JOHN was a devoted husband, father and son, his heart yearned in one unbroken current of affection toward his family, and in all the relations of life he evinced the deepest love and sincerest devotion for the dear ones of the home circle. For a year past his health has been sadly, surely declining. The skill of an attentive physician, the unremitting zeal of tender nurses, the deep untiring devotion of an aged mother and a young wife proved unavailing. The rest he sought they could not bestow but to him who is “too good to be unkind; too wise to err;” he turned and found the healing balm in complete resignation to the divine will. Away from the religions influences of a pious father and mother, surrounded by the allurements and temptations of life, following the promptings of a genial, evil nature JOHN was led into error. But the impressions inculcated into his youthful heart deepened and strengthened by the Holy Spirit, developed with its chastening the soul to shine with a more radiant and brilliant splendor under the heavenly light of a new consecration. With all the strength of his deep and powerful nature, while hope still lingered and we fondly believed he would be restored to health, with the grandeur of a child like faith he laid his afflictions at the feet of Jesus, accepted the offers of mercy and commenced life anew only to be transplanted, to the realms of immortality, there to shine with intensified radiance among the redeemed basking their wings in the sunlight of glory. In the short hour of bereavement, words of abundant comfort and precious consolation was given by his stricken friends and relations. Weeks ago he called his brother to him and told him he was trying to be a Christian, a few days before his death while his mind was clear and calm as yet unclouded by delirium, before his individuality was lost in the oblivion of unconsciousness, he told his sister that God had pardoned his sins and he was not afraid to die. He repeated it with his bright tender eye fixed firmly upon his sister's face; he said “understand me I am not afraid to die.” While his sister, mother and wife were seated in his room, his heart was filled with a joy unspeakable and the thrill of delight of a new born soul he gave expression to his triumph in halloping to God and his feeble tongue in the eloquence of devotion chanted those glorious melodies learned when an innocent boy, around his father's knee. To his absent sister he told us to write and tell her he had faith in God. Our JOHN died a Christian. We parted in sorrow but with the blessed assurance that we would meet him in Heaven and we still linger with fond recollection upon the glorious and beautiful evidence of his acceptance with God. He bid us farewell, told us with his last words to meet him in Heaven, then stepped from the shores of this life into the arms of Jesus. JOHN is gone, his mortal body has mouldered into the dust, but his soul, the creation of the divine, the heir of Eternity, and the inheritor of everlasting glory, dwells in Heaven. Beyond the twinkling of the celestial diamonds, in the “Elysian bowers of the undivided spirit world,” he drinks the dewdrop of joy that glisten on the rim of the “cup of immortality” and gathers the flowers of perennial happiness that bloom in the gardens of paradise. He is dead, yet he lives among the cherubic legions who time their harps around the great white Throne, and moves with the resplendent radiance of spotless purity and glorified being among the seraphim whose wings are circling in the “grand empyrean of eternal light.”

The soul of origin divine, God's glorious image freed from clay, In Heaven's eternal sphere shall shine, A star of day.”

A Liberal Reward.

WILL be paid for the arrest and delivery to me of Diah Collins alias Diah Lewis. She is an escaped convict from the Penitentiary, and is under indictment for burglary in the circuit court of Calhoun county.

DESCRIPTION.—Said Diah is a negro woman of very dark color, of rather low stature, heavy set and about 35 years of age. She has a very large mole on her left cheek bone, by which she can be easily identified.

THE OLD WORM FENCE SUPERCEDED BY WARD'S PATENT IMPROVED

RAIL FENCE.

THE undersigned have purchased the patent for Calhoun Co. for this useful and valuable improvement, and will dispose of rights upon favorable terms to all who may wish to avail themselves of its advantages.

The Fence is straight. Three stakes in each panel is all that comes in contact with the ground. No Post, No Mortising nor Boring. Each panel is self-supporting, and will stand alone. The rails do not cross, and are not more than half as thick as other; consequently, a great saving is available in rails. It can be made with much economy than any Fence extant. A decayed rail can be removed and a new one inserted, without lifting or deranging the Fence. Scraps of timber and poles may be used in its construction. For cattle and horses, only four rails are used every nine or ten feet. Without the use of new timber, the Worm Fence may be converted into this Improved Fence, at a saving of more than $100 per mile!
